

Video Library

Make your message heard with Broadcat's compliance training videos! These simple yet effective microlearning videos cover an array of topics in a fraction of time.

Add them to newsletters and emails, use them to enhance your Code or resource library, embed them into courses, and so much more! Plus, our growing library of videos include closed captioning in 10+ languages. Here's a sneak peek of what you'll get:

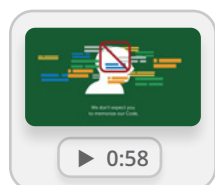

What does the ethics and compliance team do?

Explain how the E&C team puts the org's values into practice and when employees should contact you.

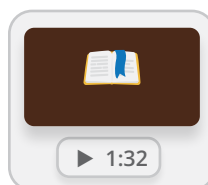

Why should I care about compliance?

Make it clear why compliance is important to everyone in your org and how it benefits them directly.

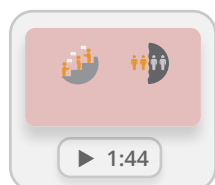

Our Code of Conduct

Tell your employees when to consult your Code, where to find it, and who to contact with questions.

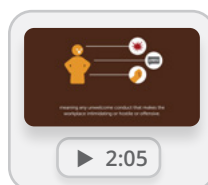

Code Obligations

Cover the core ethics and compliance responsibilities of every employee and where to go when they need help.

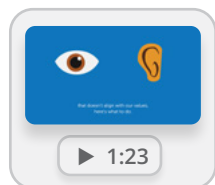

How a manager can create inclusion

Equip your managers with what they need to create psychological safety and inclusion with this short video.

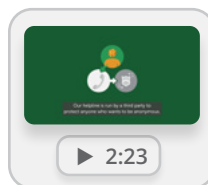

Harassment

Unpack what harassment looks, sounds, and feels like, as well as how to respond if it happens.

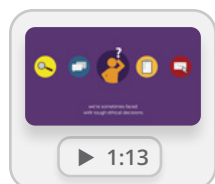

How to speak up when you're a bystander

Give bystanders the confidence they need to intervene when they see or hear something that's not right.

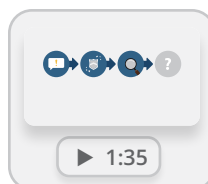

7 myths about speaking up (and the truth)

Bust those myths about speaking up by addressing seven of the most common speak-up misconceptions.

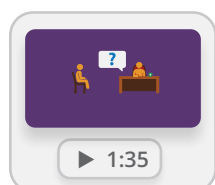

Stuck with a Tough Decision?

Guide your employees through a simple five-question exercise so they'll be empowered to make good decisions.

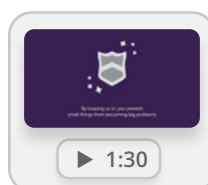

What happens when I contact the helpline?

Transform the most reticent employees into ones who are 100% comfy contacting the helpline.

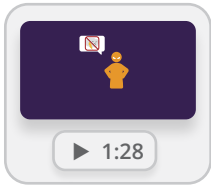

Has an employee come to you with a concern?

Empower your managers to make their employees feel heard, focus on facts, and set expectations for next steps.

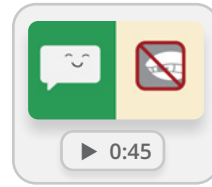

When to escalate concerns to compliance

Brief managers and HR on the key trigger points of when an issue should be triaged to Compliance.

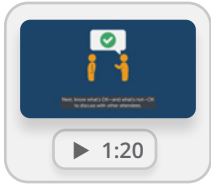

We do not tolerate retaliation

Educate your teams on the various types of retaliation and what to do if they see or experience it.

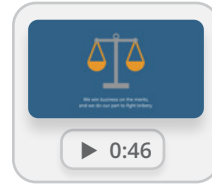

Non-retaliation for managers

Tell managers how to encourage their teams to speak up, and how to avoid actual or perceived retaliation.

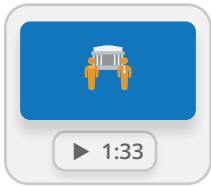

Attending a conference?

Mitigate risks of attending external events by explaining what's off limits when it comes to convo topics, gifts, and entertainment.

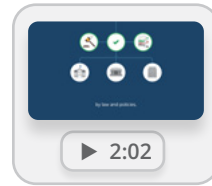

We play fair

Highlight the everyday high-risk interactions for anticorruption and unpack how your policies apply.

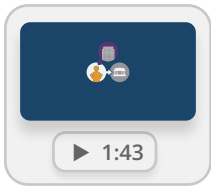

Who's a government official

Walk your employees through the nuances of identifying a government official and how to interact with them.

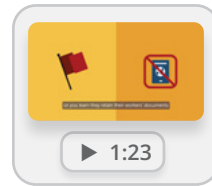

What can you give to a government official

Clearly explain what types of gifts are appropriate for government officials and which ones are off-limits with this short, targeted training video.

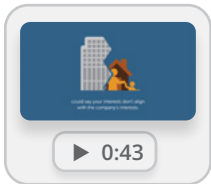

Watch out for red flags from third parties

Cover the five main scenarios that are most likely to cultivate red flags when working with third-parties.

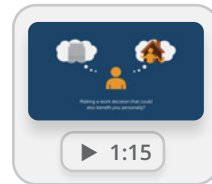

It takes all of us to stop human trafficking

Help your employees identify human trafficking red flags and what to do when they see them.

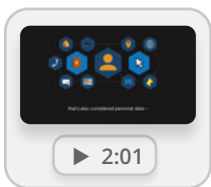

Conflicts - Do any of these apply to you?

Teach your employees when and where conflicts often arise and why disclosure is in their best interest.

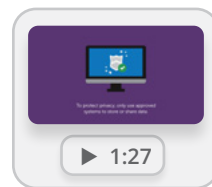

If it's disclosed, it can be managed

Unpack what conflicts are, how they often stem from good things, and why they need to be disclosed.

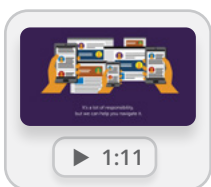

How we treat personal data

Cover the best practices of collecting and using personal data and how the org upholds privacy rights.

We protect our data

Explain what counts as data, WHY protecting it matters, and what employees can do to keep it safe.

Before You Post

Remind your employees that there's no such thing as private posts on social media and how to steer clear of pitfalls.